Campus Homecoming Spirit Prevails

Who's Who Limits Picks To Sixteen

Sixteen seniors will be elected to Who's Who in American Colleges at next Thursday's outdoor convo.

Freshmen will vote, but their votes will not count in the final selections.

A special committee will be set up to consider all exceptions to the requirements.

Senate Decides

These are the final decisions of the Senate after haggling over the Who's Who question for two weeks. Most of the changes were suggested by a research committee which studied the problem last spring.

"A list of those qualifying for Who's Who will be placed on the bulletin board in the Student Union Monday afternoon," said Dick Buchsteiner, Elections Committee chairman.

"Seniors are encouraged to check this list, and if they feel that they have been erroneously omitted or if they wish to bring a name before the special committee, they should contact me by 4 Tuesday afternoon," added Buchsteiner.

May Admit Exceptions

The special committee, headed by Student Body President Al Snook, will have the power to admit to the list of Who's Who candidates any person who does not meet the requirements but still deserves the honor.

If a senior has the necessary extracurricular activities but does not meet the grade-point requirement or vice versa, his name could still be put up for consideration before the special committee.

How the freshmen vote this year could determine whether freshmen of the future will vote. Since the feeling of the research committee was that freshmen do not know all the seniors well enough, it was decided by the Senate to use this year's vote as a study of freshman voting tendencies.

May Vote In Future

If their vote corresponds with the upper-class vote, they will probably be allowed to vote officially in the future, according to Buchsteiner. A place will be provided on the ballot to mark whether the voter is a freshman or an upperclassman.

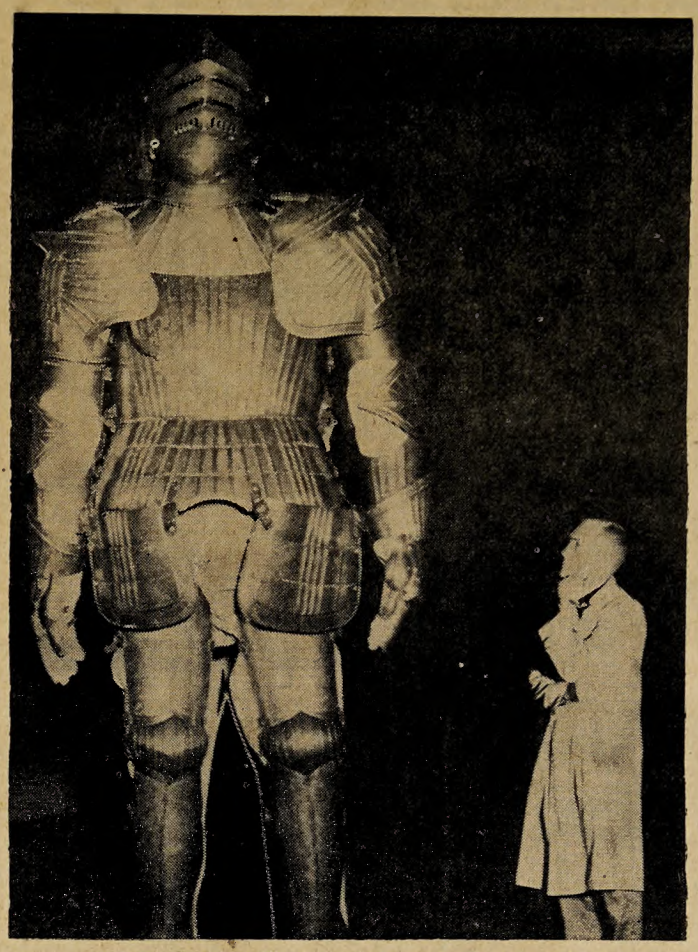
Since the freshman vote does not count, the number to be chosen has been limited to 16—10 per cent of the senior class—rather than last year's quota of 19.

Two major eligibility requirements must be met to be elected to Who's Who — grade point and extracurricular activities.

2.5 Grade Point Needed

Grade point must be 2.5 or above for all college work for seniors who will graduate before the beginning of the next school year.

Extracurricular requirements are one or more of the following: officer of student government or of a recognized organization; editor of Fortress, Trumpet or Castle; class officer, class senator or a member of a dormitory council; two letters in one sport or one letter in each of two sports.



"IT LOOKS AWFULLY big from here," muses Student Body President Al Snook as he looks over the traditional Homecoming parade outfit.

HC Contests In 3 Classes

Three special contests—beard-growing, helium balloons and room judging—will be held in connection with Homecoming, according to Contest Committee chairman Dick Hanneman.

The beard-growing contest is held in connection with Squire Days, and all freshman fellows are eligible. Classifications for judging are best all-around beard, best goatee, neatest beard and most original beard.

Winners Told Friday

Winners will be announced during the Kastle Kapers program Friday evening. Contestants are asked to meet at Knights Gymnasium one hour before the show starts.

The helium balloon contest will center around the Homecoming game. Balloons with postcards attached will be sold at 10 cents each before the game starts. They will be released after the first Wartburg touchdown.

Distance Earns Cash

The owner of the balloon going the greatest distance will receive five dollars. Two dollars will go to the second-place winner.

A change has been made in the room-judging contest this year. Instead of awarding prizes for individual rooms, a best-floor prize will be given to each dormitory.

Homecoming spirit is fast taking hold of the Wartburg campus as less than a week remains before one of the biggest events of the school year.

Everything that has been in the planning stage for weeks, and in some cases even months, will become a reality during the next week for the festivities of Homecoming, 1961.

Plans Almost Set

All the weekend plans are pretty well set now, according to general chairman Ron Bencke, but he added that there were still some loose ends to get settled.

Bencke

Thursday morning's convo, which will officially begin the big weekend, is still a mystery through the secretive planning of the publicity committee, under the direction of Ron Rademacher. Sometime during the course of the program final balloting for Homecoming Queen will be made by the student body.

HOMECOMING PRICES

BAMBOOZLED WEEKEND SPECIAL

2 Smorgasbord Tickets
1 Dance Ticket, Couple
Total $7.50

Floats which have been planned for the last few weeks will take final shape around the game theme, "Bamboozle the Beavers," on Saturday morning as Wartburg's traditional Homecoming parade is held down Bremer Avenue, starting at 10:30.

Floats On Campus

These floats will then be moved to the campus, where they will have a place for the remainder of the weekend.

Buena Vista Beavers with an 0-3 record will provide the opposition for the Knights in the football game Saturday afternoon at 2.

The evening will begin with the smorgasbord at Carver's, beginning at 4:30. The price is $1.75 and stags as well as couples are encouraged to attend, according to chairmen Karen Simpson and Cathy Gammelin.

Dance Is Highlight

Knights Gym will be the scene of the Homecoming dance, with Tony Marteri and his eight-piece orchestra providing the music. Ticket price will remain at $3.50.

The dance lasts from 8:30 p.m. to 12 midnight with girls' hours extended to 1:30 a.m. The Union and possibly the Den will be open after the dance, according to Mary Scott, dance chairman.

Come Early

Miss Scott urges that everyone come to the dance early to take advantage of the well-known band, even if just to listen. She mentioned that since the band was getting over $3 a minute, they should provide some good music.

Sunday morning's special worship service will be held at 10 in the Chapel-auditorium with the Rev. Paul Piotter of Fond du Lac, Wis., as featured speaker. His sermon topic will be in conjunction with the over-all Homecoming theme, "Christ Conquers."

"Buy your tickets for the festivities early and use the package plan," is Bencke's advice to students.

KWAR Radio Starts Mon.

KWAR-FM, the voice of Wartburg College, will begin operations Monday.

Tentatively, the station will broadcast from 5 p.m. to midnight Monday through Friday with no weekend schedule.

Many New Programs

Among the top new programs is the Wartburg Special from 8 to 9:30 p.m. Thursday evening. This is a monitor - type program, featuring Wartburg tidbits, popular music and disc jockey gab.

Ehlers

"Christian in the Twentieth Century" is another new program scheduled for this year. It will be conducted by faculty members of the Christianity Department in lecture, debate and question-answer form.

News Will Be Stressed

This year a more intensive news program will be carried out, according to News Director Terry Havel. Daily news beats are being assigned to cover Wartburg and Waverly.

Although KWAR is considered a laboratory of the Speech Department, it is entirely student-operated under the supervision of Dr. E. T. Sandberg, head of the English-Speech-Journalism Department.

Station officers other than those previously mentioned are station manager, Jerry Dexter; chief engineer, Al Sandau; continuity director, Verl Reinicke, religious editor, Kathryn Koob; and record librarian, Kay Marshek.

Still Openings

KWAR invites anyone interested in working at the station to stop any time the station is on the air, says Ehlers. Positions are still available in engineering, continuity, news and publicity.

A complete schedule of KWAR programs is listed on the editorial page of this issue.

CHECKING OUT THE engineering booth equipment, Chief Engineer Al Sandau gives it the okay to start operating Monday.

Kapers To Be Big, Unusual

Wartburg has seen many things come and go over the years, but tradition still plays an important part in several aspects of campus life.

Kastle Kapers has evolved to the point where it is one of the highlights of Homecoming weekend.

Formerly Skit Night

Years ago Kapers was synonymous with an annual skit night put on by all the dorms and organizations on campus.

Today this student-written, student-produced and student-directed production has reached the point that it attracted over two thousand people last year, and a bigger attendance is expected for this year.

Doug Kutschat and Kathryn Koob, student directors, both stated that the auditions were exceptionally good with a surplus of acts. Due to the format used in Kapers this year, all the acts could not be included.

Uses Pit Orchestra

This memory-type production employs no on-stage emcee but does use a pit orchestra for the first time. Instrumental, vocal and dance numbers combine to carry out the theme "Last Year We . . . "

The highlight of the evening will be the presentation of the 1961 Homecoming Queen and her court.

HC Buttons Arrive Soon

Button, button, who's got the button?

Nobody.

But Homecoming novelties chairman Jim Ward hopes to have them soon. In addition to the 50-cent buttons, Ward will sell pennants, cowbells, confetti and streamers in the dorms as soon as they arrive.

Yellow mums with black W's will also be sold for a dollar in the dorms next week as gifts for mothers and girls.

FROM THE EDITOR'S CHAIR

Rivalry, Stealing — 2 Different Things

Reunion — class of 1962.

"Remember back when we were at Wartburg how we used to be such rivals with Luther and Upper Iowa?"

"Yeh, those were the days, now that you look back on them. Seemed like something happened every year. I remember one year we painted the statue of Martin Luther up at Luther."

"That was before my time, I guess. The year I really remember was, let me see, 61, I believe."

"Yeh, I think I remember that year. Wasn't that the time old so-and-so took the Axe from Luther, and they couldn't find it?"

"Sure was. Then some guys from Luther came and swiped our suit of armor one morning a couple of weeks later."

"Only difference was they got caught and we didn't."

"They never did catch old so-and-so, huh?"

"Guess not. I hear he's got the Axe in his trophy room now."

"They sure looked hard enough for it. Old so-and-so kept it pretty secret, though. I don't think too many knew about it until a week later."

"But there were those who knew."

"Yes, I suppose so. The symbol of rivalry became a victim of rivalry. You know, that Axe was important to quite a few people."

"The bad thing about the whole deal was that old so-and-so's buddies took four Luther helmets and some football capes."

"That was a little extreme. I remember hearing that one guy even rolled up his pants' legs, put on a helmet and cape and ran off the field with Luther at half-time."

"Ah, you're kidding. I never heard that story. But it is true that stealing the helmets kind of marred the effect of taking the Axe. Taking the Axe and suit of armor wasn't too bad — pretty funny, in fact."

"And then a night or two later three guys from Upper Iowa tried to splash some paint on the gym. It would have cost a lot to get that off."

"But Schinn caught those fellows with all the evidence."

"They even claimed that some guys from Wartburg painted orange W's on some of their buildings."

"Yes, sir, those were the good old days of rivalry. I wonder if they do anything like that now for excitement."

Reds vs. Yankees. At least this year's WORLD Series is international in scope . . . or sort of.

FROM THE STUDENT BODY PRESIDENT

Who's Who Debate Solved By Senate

By Al Snook

At the last meeting of the Student Senate, the final qualifications for selection of candidates for Who's Who were set up.

It is the privilege of each new Senate to set up these qualifications for the year that it is the governing body, and each year this privilege poses a problem.

Criteria Set

Whether it will ever be solved or not, we can't tell, but this year we feel that we have gone a long way in setting up criteria for future Senates to follow.

Snook

In past years the freshman enrollment has been used to determine how many candidates the college may have, but the freshman vote hasn't counted in determining which people appear on the final selection. This year we felt that if the freshman vote wasn't going to count, then that class's enrollment shouldn't be counted in determining how many students we place on this final selection.

After spending the greater portion of two Senate meetings discussing Who's Who, we decided to take 10 per cent of the senior class and put that many students on the list that we send in.

161 In Class

The senior class this year has 161 students, which number will give us sixteen seniors to represent Wartburg College in Who's Who in American Colleges.

The Senate felt that 10 per cent of the senior class would make the selection to Who's Who a real honor, and we hope that the students will feel the same.

I would like to call special attention to the committee that has been set up for the purpose of considering those who feel that their names or that of someone they know, should appear on the ballot.

Exceptions Might Be Worthy

These would be people who have been outstanding in the extracurricular part of the requirements but don't quite meet the grade requirement, or those who have an exceptional academic record but don't meet the extracurricular part of the requirement.

Student names which will appear on the ballot will be posted in the Student Union Monday, and anyone who feels that his name or someone else's name should appear on the ballot should contact Dick Buchsteiner, Elections Committee chairman, before 4 p.m. Tuesday.

SEVEN GAMES INSTEAD OF SEASON?

Value Of Series Doubted In Picking World Champ

By Bob Johannsen

The words "World Series" would seem to imply that these contests crown the champion of the whole of baseball. How appearances can deceive the eye!

It's hard to realize how seven isolated games in early October between the champions of the American and National Leagues can decide anything resembling the world or U.S. championship.

Johannsen

The most that can be proven is that _____ was better than _____ for that certain period of time and under a certain set of conditions.

The two league pennants are decided over a truly representative 154- or 162-game schedule. Schedules of such length test entire squads and entire pitching staffs. Bench strength, second-line pitching, pitching rotations, day-to-day consistency and stamina, all play an important role in determining the league champion .

Why then should we laud and praise a team, calling it the best of baseball, for taking the best of a seven-game series which utterly disregards many of the qualities necessary to take a league pennant?

Seven games are about as representative as one quarter of one game is for a football season. Few baseball fans could consider this year's second division St. Louis Cardinals a better club than the second-place Los Angeles Dodgers. On the basis of a four-game series' sweep by the Cardinals in August and the World Series formula, could you ever consider them the truly better team?

Whereas the pennant is decided by a 25-player roster, the Series is quite often decided by as few as 15 players. Bench strength too often in the Series is limited to the top two or three pinch hitters, and pitching staffs are often carried by one pitcher starting three times (Lou Burdette). This gives no true picture of the team.

Perhaps the most ludicrous and inaccurate practice connected with this comedy is the practice of choosing a Series' hero and goat. The qualities of consistency and stamina are completely forgotten here.

Why do baseball fans and writers feel compelled to place a player on a throne for his one moment in the sun? The Series' setup seems designed to forget, amidst the pomp and pageantry of the grand farce, the steady player who has performed well over the season.

Simplify! Simplify! By all means, let's condense the whole 1,262 regular games, 450 players and numerous streaks and slumps into seven isolated games for a financial gain.

Then everyone can spend one week following baseball and say he has viewed the culmination of the summer-long season. Not culmination, really, but cultivation and harvest of the cash and interest to be gained by front offices of the respective clubs, press, radio and television.

Somewhere along the line it seems as though the American baseball fan has lost his respect and praise for the steady, reliable and consistent performer who has put out all he could for the full 154-game schedule.

Instead he, the fan, has been swept away by the tide of erstwhile baseball fans who throng to the television for this one week. It is for this one-week fan that the spectacle is intended and for the benefit of whom the words "World Champions" and "World Series' hero and goat" must exist.

Knights Battle Peacocks In Important Grid Action

By Paul Mardorf

Wartburg Knights continue their grid warfare today at 1:30 p.m. by taking on the Upper Iowa Peacocks at Fayette.

The team that emerges with this victory should be in the thick of the Iowa Conference race. Upper Iowa has a 1-1 conference record, and the Knights, a 2-1 mark.

The Peacocks beat Buena Vista 9-0 and lost to Parsons 30-0. In non-conference play the Peacocks downed William Penn 3-0.

Among the changes for the Jomen today is the shift of outstanding linebacker Don Sowers to the backfield and freshman Bob Nielsen to end. This should give the Knights needed backfield blocking and speed at end.

Parsons Ends Streak

Last Saturday Parsons ended a home game winning streak for the Knights which extended back to 1957.

The Wildcats upended the previously undefeated Knights 16-7 for the first loss at home since the Simpson game of Nov. 9, 1957.

For the second week in a row the Knights played in a constant rain. Attendance, however, did not seem to suffer much from the wet weather, as around 1,000 fans saw the Knights put up a good fight in a losing battle.

Knights Score First

The Jomen started the game strongly. After holding Parsons on its first series of downs, quarterback Gary Leeper moved the Knights from around midfield steadily ahead.

Fulcher

Leeper climaxed the drive with a 25-yard pass to halfback Bill Fulcher, who made a diving catch for the touchdown. Denny Krominga's kick was good and the Knights led 7-0.

In the second quarter, Parsons went to work. Headed by ace quarterback Gary Gardner, the Wildcats started on their own 43 and continually ground out yardage which finally ended in a touchdown when Joe Drefkes received a short Gardner pass.

Misses PAT Attempt

Jim Ostander missed the extra point, and the Knights still held the lead, 7-6.

In the third quarter, however, Ostander redeemed himself with a 14-yard field goal to put Parsons in the lead 9-7.

After a punt by Larry Anderson, Gardner threw a short pass from his own 32 to Bob Martin, who was finally grabbed from behind on the Wartburg seven-yard line.

On the next play Bob Wieneke, in for Gardner who was injured on the previous play, threw to Joe Patava for the touchdown. Ostander then converted, to make the score 16-7.

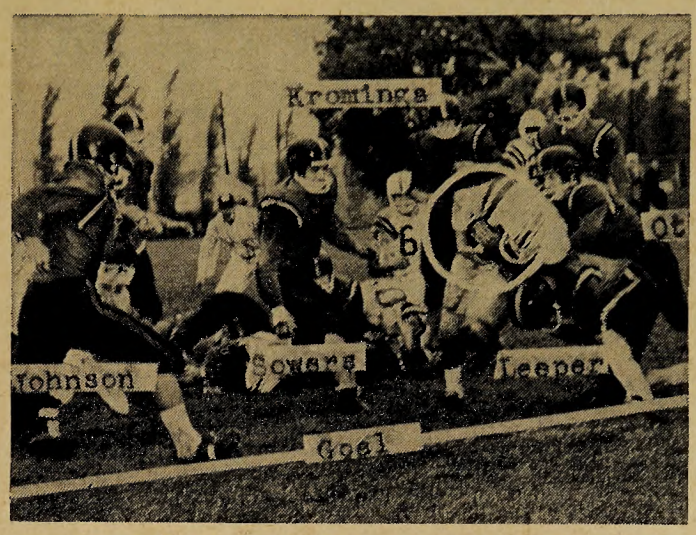
This Week's Action

Simpson at Central (nigbt)
Luther at Dubuque
Iowa Wesleyan at Parsons
Wartburg at Upper Iowa



ALTHOUGH IT MAY seem impossible, this Parsons runner failed to score as a host of Knights swarmed down on him. All three TD's in the game came via passes.

IM Gridders Play Three

Three games were played this week in the IM football program.

In games Tuesday, Grossmann I-II-Basement defeated Clinton II by a score of 7-0 while North Hall and Clinton I-Basement battled to a scoreless tie.

In the lone game played Thursday the Off-campus team swept by the Clinton III forces with a 32-14 victory.

Grossmann Wins Second

It was the second win in as many games for Grossmann I-II-Basement when that team defeated Clinton II, 7-0.

The teams battled on even terms for most of the game, but in the late stages, Wayne Phillips blocked a Clinton II punt and scored the only touchdown of the game. Bob Meyer added the extra point.

Defense was the story of the game featuring North Hall and Clinton I-Basement. The Clinton forces threatened several times, but the North Hall defense stood the test, stopping one drive on the two-yard line.

Off-Campus Rolls

In a high-scoring game played Thursday afternoon, the Off-campus team tallied five times and added two extra points to down the Clinton III team. For Off-campus, Leon Schade and Charlie Matthias scored twice, whereas Jerry Oberheu added one TD.

Dave Langrock came through with one of the longest runs of the day as he returned a kickoff all the way for a touchdown. Jim Hamer scored the other Clinton III marker on a pass from Langrock.

The other game scheduled for Thursday, in which Clinton I-Basement was to have faced Grossmann III, was postponed but will be played sometime next week.

AS KICKING SPECIALIST

Andy Punts Way Into Knight Plans

By John Stumme

Because of the quality of a quantity of Knights, Coach Norm Johansen has developed many of his players as specialists.

One of the specialists who has got the Jomen out of some tight spots is senior punter Larry Andersen.

Punts 26 Times

Inability of the Knights to move the ball has given Andersen the chance to put his toe into the pigskin 26 times.

Andersen

And the 6-foot, 180-pound senior has responded with booming punts that have made the fans gasp, caused the opposition to run back and helped the Knights apply their aggressive defense.

In Wartburg's three games Andersen has averaged almost nine punts a game. These punts bave pushed Wartburg's opponents back 899 yards for an average of 34.5 yards per game. Against Parsons Andy averaged 41 yards, on nine kicks.

First Year Of Punting

Although he kicked for three years in bigh scbool, this is the first year be bas tried it at Wartburg.

"Last year I dislocated my elbow in one of the first practices," explained Andersen. "I would go and watch practices, and, since there wasn't anything else I could do, I started fooling around with some punting. I got a little better, so Jo told me to work at it during the summer."

Andersen worked at it all summer, and by the first game this fall he was the Knights' number one punter.

Wartburg fans are hoping Andersen won't have to be called upon so much for the remaining games.

But when a kicker is needed, it's good to be able to send number 88 into the game to punt the ball in a typical high and far Andersen manner.

PUNTER LARRY ANDERSEN booms another one as he practices constantly.

PICKING UP SPLINTERS

Success String Snipped; Upsets Fog Crystal Ball

By Paul Baumgarten

By now everyone should know the story of the Parsons encounter, so, not caring to retell sad tales, I shall let this one lie.

Baumgarten

An interesting sidelight was the breaking of a Knight winning streak of nearly four years' duration. The last defeat for the Knights in the local stadium was at the hands of Simpson, 20-13, on Nov. 9, 1957.

• • • •

The rest of the league action was a prognosticator's downfall — i.e., mine.

Luther completely dominated its game with Wesleyan but again had trouble crossing the goal line. As a result, Luther won by only 7 points instead of the predicted 20.

Upper Iowa dumped Buena Vista 9-0. However, B.V. had two starting backs out with injuries, and because I allowed this exception, I here claim half credit.

The one I got right had Dubuque blasting Simpson 40-12. That gave me 50 per cent for the week. About time to quit, you say?

• • • •

I, however, have an ego complex (whatever that is), and my ego needs a boost. Consequently, I again plunge into the uncharted deep.

Simpson travels to Central for what could be an even contest. However, Simpson hasn't yet shown enough offensive punch and should go home disappointed.

Wesleyan invades the lair of the Kelly Greens and should emerge in a thorough state of slaugbter. This one, however, could be the surprise of the season because Parsons may be underestimating the Tigers.

• • • •

The Luther-Dubuque game should be a real corker. I expect Luther finally to get its scoring machinery in gear and come out on top.

The Knights will have a contest on their hands at Upper Iowa. They may have to fight a letdown after Luther and Parsons. I pick Wartburg in a close one.

Thus ends this week's lesson on how not to peer into the deep, dark future. See you next week.

CAUSERIE DE DIVERTISSEMENT

Russia, Mystery, Islands, Top Week's Meeting List

By Louise Loots

Seventy-six trombones will lead the big parade — well, not quite, but all the trombonists plus the rest of the marching band will be at Upper Iowa in full force for the game this afternoon. After the flood last week, let's hope it's our turn to capture a rainbow. (So can we help it if all we can find is a peacock?)

Hey, what's with this mystery convo? It's getting to be pretty bad when even the convo committee has to admit that it doesn't know what's going on in convo anymore. Oh, well, it could be kind of interesting, at that.

□ □ □ □

Would you like to learn how to lead a Bible study? If so, be sure to come to the Phoebes meeting tomorrow, Sunday afternoon at 1:30 p.m. in Wartburg Hall Lounge. There a study will be conducted by Pastor Schick — and no sleeping in class!

What A "Kookie Little Paradise" — this is what the Philippines may be, but they also have education there.

At the SEA meeting Monday night the little gal from the Philippines, Maiilinda Zerrudo, will speak on education in the islands. The meeting will be held in the cafeteria at 7:45 p.m.

"Ah, this feeds my soul," mused Marlowe's Faustus. Perhaps the people of Soviet Russia partake of different food than did Faustus, but it would be interesting to learn what nourishes their souls.

For an interesting and informative evening, attend the English lecture on Soviet Russian culture to be given Wednesday night. The lecture, first in a series, begins at 7:30 in the audio-visual room of the library.

Been dying to see what your favorite girl's or guy's room is like? Wonder no longer, for the Student Directory is coming next Thursday or Friday. So all you have to do is find the room number in the directory and hunt it up during open house next weekend.

Hate to bring this up again, but I just found out what the mystery is all about.

It seems that although a picture was taken during convo last Thursday, the picture showed up with empty seats. So as an attempt to solve this enigma, a panel discussion will be held, entitled "The Case of the Missing Student Body." It will be led by some of Oppie's girls.

Do you have that tired, let-down feeling? Does your alarm go off when you think it couldn't possibly be morning yet, and then go off again . . . and again . . . Well, cheer up! Four-weeks' grades are due next week!

YOU... and the wonderful world of books

As a college student, you are aware of expanding horizons as you move with increasing familiarity in the world of books. In doing so, you will find agreement with the sages, one of whom said:

"Words—blessed letters
Small drops of ink
Falling like dew upon thought
Forces men to think."

Francis Bacon proclaimed that "reading maketh a full man," and Joseph Addison insisted that "Reading is to the mind what exercise is to the body." Your world, too, can take on added dimension as you make good books an integral part of your college experience.

Augsburg Publishing House, publishers of good reading materials, recommends several new titles for today's collegian:

YOUR NEIGHBOR'S FAITH, William A. Poovey, $1.75—History, teachings of America's religious denominations.

CHRISTIAN FAITH AND THE LIBERAL ARTS, H. H. Ditmanson, H. V. Hong, W. A. Quanbeck, $4.95—Current liberal arts programs in relation to the church.

WHAT YOUTH ARE THINKING, W. Gordon Smedsrud, 50c—Insights from Lutheran Youth Research.

THE WORLD AND MEN AROUND LUTHER, Walter G. Tillmanns, $5.95—A study of the forces and personalities of the Reformation.

THE ANSWER OF FAITH, Kai Jensen, $2.50—The power of the Christian faith to put meaning into life.

THE WAY IT WAS IN BIBLE TIMES, Merrill T. Gilbertson, $1.50—Explanation of Bible objects and customs.
